3. Residence

Description Five farm structures are located on the property including: a rubble stone outbuilding with a gable roof; a large wood frame barn, painted white with horizontal siding and a concrete block foundation; a small wood frame outbuilding with a gable roof and horizontal siding; a moderately sized outbuilding similar to the first two buildings described; and a rubble stone wall about two feet high, possibly apart of the foundation of a barn.

(Because access to the property was prohibited [locked gate] the descriptions of the farm structures were taken directly from the 1991 Historic Structures Survey).

Also located on the property, and observed during the 1998 survey, is a house (viewed and photographed at a considerable distance) and two stone entrance pillars, located along Clarkston Road.

Date of Construction house-1925 (1950 remodeled); farm structures-unknown

Condition all structures-unknown

Integrity all structures-undetermined

History See Appendix B

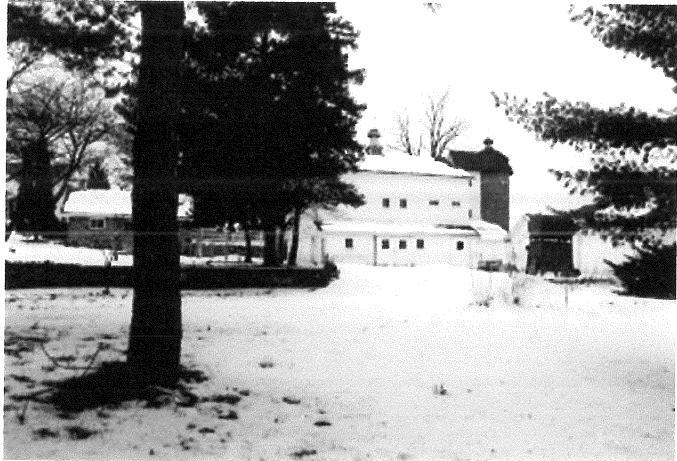

Significance This property was owned by the members of the Walter family from at least 1872-1908 (plat maps), for which Walters Lake was named. It is not known of any structures remain on the property from the time period in which the family farmstead was located on this property.

23. Residence

Description The structure of this house has changed considerably since it was described in the WPA Properties Inventory in 1939. At that time, the house was a two-story structure with a rubble stone foundation and a gable roof. Attached to the main structure was a one-story wing. All additional sections have been added since 1939. The house is covered with anachronistic siding.

Also located on the site is a barn with a concrete foundation and gambrel roof, a tile silo and a small outbuilding, and a two-car detached garage.

The 1908 township plat map identified this site as the "Pine Knob Farm."

Date of Construction house-1930 (WPA Rural Properties Inventory - This date probably represents a remodel date, the stone foundation indicates that the structure is older than 1930); barn-1898 (remodeled in 1936); silo-1928; small outbuilding-unknown; garage-unknown

Condition house-good; barn-good; silo-fair (cap missing); small outbuilding-poor; garage-good
Integrity house-poor; barn-good; silo-fair; small outbuilding-poor; garage-good

History See Appendix B

Significance This site is significant as the farmstead of the Coon family. Issac D. Coon was one of the earliest settlers in the township, purchasing one hundred and twenty acres in section 15 by 1834. The property remained within the Coon family for over sixty years. Although it is possible, it is not known for sure if any of the structures on the site were constructed by the Coon family.

Description Two-story house with a dormer window, anachronistic vinyl siding, and a one-story addition to the rear. The house does not resemble the floor plan drawn in the 1939 WPA Rural Properties Inventory. It is uncertain if this reflects major changes in the structure (i.e. two-story vs. one and one-half story), or if the wrong structure was identified in the 1939 rural inventory.

Description Two-story L-plan house with a stone foundation, two bay windows, and attenuated windows with decorative window crowns. The facade has two front-gables, with a decorative "S" located in the secondary gable (presumably for "Sibley", the family that owned the house in the late 1800s and early 1900s). The house has anachronistic siding, and several additions, built prior to 1939 (shown on the WPA Rural Properties Inventory).

The farm's barns and silos were located across the road from the house (see site 20-02).

Date of Construction 1884 (WPA Rural Properties Inventory), 1864 (1991 survey-reference unknown)
Condition good
Integrity good

Ownership History See Appendix B

Significance The house is architecturally significant as a good example of the late 19th houses built within the township. It retains many of its original decorative features.

The site was also the property of Nelson Clark, who with his brother Jeremiah platted the first tract of land in Clarkston. It has not been determined whether the house was constructed during the time period when Nelson owned the property.

Description Gable-front-and-wing house with a rubble stone foundation. According to the owner, the original configuration of the house has changed, due to a fire in the kitchen twenty years ago and subsequent reconstruction. Hand hewn rafters are found within the original section of the house. Anachronistic features include the decorative shutters and the exterior siding.

Also located on the site is the foundation of an outhouse (front of house), a dump area (front of house) and a foundation of a barn (maybe on adjacent property).

Date of Construction house-1880 (WPA Rural Properties Inventory), 1934 (township tax records, probably a remodel date); foundations-unknown

Condition house-good; farm structures-ruins
Integrity house-poor; farm structures-poor

Ownership History See Appendix B

Significance The site is significant as the location of the Miller farmstead. Paul Miller purchased the property as early as 1857 and the property remained in the Miller family for over seventy years.
